The last two months' get togethers have been a really interesting mix of several nationalities, excellent fun and with a good variety of crafts being enjoyed by many lovely, generous people. Especially good have been the fabulous home-made cakes brought by many, to share throughout the day. Thank you!

Tuesday April 14th (day after Easter Monday) sees the next Arty Crafty Sharing Day happening again, (details as before) with a requested addition to the days' usual events...

I know it's early yet in the season, but there may already be some plants you've divided, or over-sown or otherwise propagated, and would like to swap with others, to vary your collection. Bring them along and see what else there is to tempt you.

We'll be doing this every month now until the growing season's over, so no worries if you've nothing to share just yet.

Be nice to add some new faces to the familiar, and with the sunshine - we might even get to be outside... :laugh:

All the best
Jenni
