

---

Vehicle Repairs In France

Posted by peter - 2008/02/04 06:48

---

I have been asked by an Englishman, Brian Ashton, that when he comes to France on February 23rd if we can advise a place that can put wheels back on Chariots. I am further advised that his is not swinging low enough!! Garage Asterix near the Stade de France may be able to oblige.

=====

Re:Vehicle Repairs In France

Posted by Julie and John Rose - 2008/02/04 08:39

---

We use Point Confiance in Autun, don't know if this is near to Brian. They are very helpful and friendly.
Julie

=====

Re:Vehicle Repairs In France

Posted by Teejay - 2008/02/04 19:12

---

I know a scrapyard near Twickenham, if thats any good.

I asked my fiend Dai Thomas if he knew of anyone, but he was just speechless with laughter!

=====

Re:Vehicle Repairs In France

Posted by Teejay - 2008/02/04 19:18

---

Teejay wrote:

I know a scrapyard near Twickenham, if thats any good.

I asked my fiend Dai Thomas if he knew of anyone, but he was just speechless with laughter!

(and he really is a fiend!)

=====

Scrapyard of Cars

Posted by peter - 2008/02/04 19:49

---

Terry,
Is that the scrapyard with the restaurant next to it?
I heard that they have brought out a new gravy stock for the stew on their menu for the English after Saturday - it is called laughing stock.

=====

Re:Scrapyard of Cars

Posted by Teejay - 2008/02/04 23:46

---

...thats the one...all their dishes are battered and the specialty vegetable is english leeks

=====